Fostering

The Fat Kitty City.org Foster Program is designed for animals that are not quite ready for adoption. This includes kittens and puppies that are too young, animals with injuries that simply need time to recover and mothers with litters that need to be together until the babies are weaned. Foster parent volunteers are needed to take care of these animals for a specific amount of time, providing the daily care, feeding and administration of any needed medicine during that period. The animal(s) remain the property of Fat Kitty City.org and when the animal(s) are ready for adoption, they are brought back to Fat Kitty City.org for a check-up and placement. The foster parent(s) have the option of adopting the animal(s) at a discounted rate if they should so choose.
